COOKIE POLICY

HOW AND WHY WE USE COOKIES

A "cookie" is a piece of information that helps us to identify you when you use our Application. We use cookies in order to offer certain website and Application functionality, to better understand how our services are used and improve them.

We may use cookies for the following purposes:

1. record User's account information;
2. record User's preferences;
3. keep User logged during the use of the HomeStretch website and the Application;
4. track statistics about for how long and in what way the HomeStretch website and the Application are used.

We may use the following types of cookies:

Basic Cookies	These are necessary cookies, without them the HomeStretch website and the Application won't work properly.
Management Cookies	These are used to log you in and keep you logged during the use of the HomeStretch website and the Application.
Personalization Cookies	These are used to recognize repeated Users of the HomeStretch website and the Mobile Application, keep their route information, starting points, destination points, their notes and preferences.
Security Cookies	These cookies help to identify security risks and keep the HomeStretch website and the Application safe. They protect account information of the HomeStretch website and the Application's Users from unauthorized access and use.

You can reject cookies in a pop-up cookie notice when you use our website or our mobile application for the first time. Please note that due to that our services may become partially unavailable for you or won't be able to provide specific functions.

By using our services, you agree to the terms of this Cookie Policy.